

2 Which statement about vector quantities is correct?

- A Acceleration of free fall is a vector quantity because it has a constant magnitude.
- B Temperature in $^{\circ}\text{C}$ is a vector quantity because it can be positive or negative.
- C Time is a vector quantity because it can only go in the forwards direction.
- D Weight is a vector quantity because it has a direction.