

6 What is a statement of the principle of conservation of momentum for a system?

A The total momentum and the total kinetic energy are always conserved.

B The total momentum is conserved only in elastic collisions.

C The total momentum is conserved provided that no external forces act.

D The total momentum of each object in the system is the product of its mass and velocity.

7 Which of the following is not a vector?