

- 24 Diffraction can be observed when a wave passes an obstruction. The diffraction effect is greatest when the wavelength and the obstruction are similar in size.

For waves travelling through air, what is the combination of wave and obstruction that could best demonstrate diffraction?

- A microwaves passing a steel post
- B radio waves passing a copper wire
- C sound waves passing a human hair
- D visible light waves passing a gate post