

32 The resistance of a filament lamp increases as the current in it increases.

What is the reason for this?

- A The charge of each charge carrier increases.
- B The potential difference across the filament decreases.
- C The power dissipated by the filament decreases.
- D The temperature of the filament increases.